

CHAIRMAN'S NEWSLETTER JULY 2020

With Lockdown upon us and no events in the calendar, TWC might well have gone into sleep mode but for the introduction of a WhatsApp page. The daily exchange of photographs, whether of the garden, the view from the window or of the members involved (some of whom did not know each other), became very important to us all.

From an idea originally floated on this chat, a small group got together – virtually, of course – to create an E-Book of Recipes. This will shortly be launched with the hope of attracting donations. This income, however small, will be important to us.

While most of us have been in Lockdown in our homes, almost all the women who were participating in the 2020 CII Course were “trapped” far from home and only a few were able to leave the ADAPT Centre in Mumbai in mid April, when the Course ended and the last three, from Nepal, have only just been able to return – three months later than they would have expected. Reports on their activities can be found in the Courses section.

We very much hope that we shall be able to resume activities shortly, even if they are virtual.

With all good wishes,

Pat Yaxley
